

TOP 10 OLYMPIC EVENTS THAT REMIND US OF THE OBAMA ECONOMY

#7: No Baseball or Softball

Are you missing baseball and softball at the Olympics this year?
You might be missing income, too.

If the Obama recovery had kept pace with other recoveries since 1960, Americans would have had an average of $25,321* more in their pockets over the past seven years instead of striking out.

The classic American sports of baseball and softball have been missing from the 2012 and 2016 summer Olympics but are set to return in 2020.

Will home-run incomes return by then?

* Based on after-tax, inflation-adjusted income per capita